west. It appears that this wing may have been constructed in two stages. The windows of the east facade have an irregular placement.

West facade

Behind the western addition to the south (main) facade is another addition (Site Plan #1d). This consists of a dining room and kitchen, added around 1952 when the residence was converted into a restaurant. This addition has a flat roof. An entrance to the dining room from the exterior is by a flight of wooden steps. The west facade of the older portion of the house is articulated by four irregularly placed and shaped windows.

North facade

On the east is an older portion of the house, with a centrally placed window. On the west is the newer dining room addition. Projecting back near the center of this facade, is a sheet metal covered kitchen addition, set on concrete blocks.

Roofs

The main portions of the house have asphalt shingled gable roofs. The porch has a hip roof and the dining room addition at the northwest corner has a flat roof.

Chimneys

Two brick chimneys are visible from the south facade, one in the center of the original portion of the residence and one in the eastern addition to the house. The rear wing of the east facade has a centrally placed brick chimney.

Alterations

Major alterations to the residence have been minimal. A carport has been added to the southeast corner of the residence and a dining room and kitchen addition have been added to the northwest corner of the residence.

Outbuildings

Several outbuildings are located around the house. They include:

1) a frame blacksmith shop, painted white (Site Plan #2)

2) an imitation log-construction chapel, painted red, built for the current owner around 1958. (Site Plan #3) To the northwest of the chapel is a small pond.

3) a small frame cottage that was moved to its current location from Winwood Lake by the current owner, 5 (Site Plan #4)

4) a one and one-half story frame guest house, supported on stone piles, that was constructed by the Compton family (Site Plan #5)

5) a smoke house that stood on the grounds recently collapsed.

Present Status

The residence is currently used as a restaurant. A portion of the buildings is used by the owner as a residence.

Condition

The residence is in good condition.

Site

The residence sits in a rather isolated setting, in hilly terrain. It sits well back from the road and the grounds are well maintained. A gravel circle drive is located in front of the residence. In the center of this drive is a large metal statue of Justice that once topped the Clay County Courthouse. To the west of the circle drive is a gravel surfaced parking lot.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The James H. Compton Residence, 5410 Northeast Oak Ridge Road, in Kansas City, Missouri's North District, is one of the oldest surviving residential structures in the city and has a lengthy association with a prominent Clay County family. The residence, built around a log cabin of 1829 remained in the Compton family for 110 years, from 1844 until 1954. The residence was a center of social life in Clay County and today serves as a visible reminder of pioneer life.

COMPTON FAMILY HISTORY

Dr. James Howard Compton was born in Prince William County, Virginia, in 1815. He studied to become a dentist, but the call of the frontier triumphed over his dental career. In 1834 he moved to Platte County, Missouri, and for a number of years was engaged in the mercantile business at Platte City. In 1840 he married Mary Anne Wirt. The daughter of George Wirt, she was born in Shelby County, Kentucky, in 1820. The Wirt family had moved to Clay County in 1833. After their marriage, the Comptons resided on the Wirt farm until they moved to this property in 1844. Around 1846 or 1847 Compton hauled government supplies for the United States Army during the Mexican War, across the Santa Fe Trail to Santa Fe, New Mexico. James and Mary Ann Compton had nine children, one of whom died in infancy. The children were all educated at a near-by private school, Sugar Tree Grove Academy.

Compton purchased the farm which he named "Oak Ridge", in 18442 from Jonathan Adkins, recipient of the original land grant in 1833. The residence originally consisted of two log cabins, built in 1829, placed close together with a narrow, covered "dog walk" connecting them. A six foot space separated the cabins and a double fireplace was used between them. The 3log construction is still visible on the interior of one of the rooms.

The large family was noted for their hospitality and southern geniality. Christmas, especially, was a big event on the farm. As many as forty-five guests were known to have gathered for the festivities. At times every bed was occupied and feather ticks, kept expressly for this purpose, were spread on the downstairs floors to accommodate guests. The house 4 would be decorated with wild berries and greenery gathered on the farm.

The field hands were customarily given a Christmas holiday as long as the yule backlog continued to burn. The hands were careful to choose a big log of slow burning wood and then to soak it in the creek for a week or two, insuring a lengthy vacation. Wild turkey for the Christmas meal could be shot on the property.5

Guerrilla skirmishes of the Civil War did not directly affect the Compton residence, but following the Union victory most of the slaves The remaining house servants continued to live on the farm many years as respected members of the household.

Daily life on the farm was organized so that each member of the family had a special responsibility. For example, Mary Ann Compton's special task was knitting stockings and mittens for the family and slaves.

Cotton and wheat were the principal crops raised on the farm. lar annual event was the sugar camp. After boring holes in the maple trees, spigots were inserted to collect the sap. Visitors gathered for the camp, which included generous meals and entertainment.

The family owned the first cooking stove in the area. Neighbors traveled for miles to see it operated. A Thanksgiving turkey was burned to a crisp by the Compton women who were accustomed to cooking over an open fireplace.

The family belonged to the Antioch Christian Church. The only time the Antioch Church annual strawberry festival, which dates from 1885, was not held at the church was in 1929. That year road construction blocked access to the church and the festival was held instead at the Compton residence. 10 Entertaining large groups was a continuing Compton tradition. In 1944 Emma Compton, then 84 years old, received five hundred guests at an open house to celebrate one hundred years of the family's residence at the home. This was accomplished without the conveniences of electricity or running water. 11

Following the death of James Compton in 1879, the farm was operated by his only son, George Thomas Compton. Mary Ann Compton had died in 1895. The daughters all married and moved away, with the exception of Emma, who continued to live on the farm until 1954. The farm gradually changed from a working farm to use as a resort. This was a natural extension of the hospitality of the family. In the 1890's J. W. Jenkins, founder of the Jenkins Music Company in Kansas City, rented the farm every year for a week, to give his family a taste of country life. 13 Howard Tyng Mervine, also of Kansas City and general manager of the Railway Express Agency, visited the farm annually for 45 years. 14

In 1954 Emma Compton sold the residence to Louise Sandstrom. At that time it still did not have electricity or running water. It was lighted with kerosene lamps and heated with stoves and four fireplaces. Louise Sandstrom modernized the residence, but without changing its authenticity and pioneer flavor, and opened it as a restaurant, Sandy's Oak Ridge Manor. She also made some additions to the original residence. Emma Compton had sold the residence with all furnishings intact. Her bedroom remains just as she left it. Many of the family's furnishings from pioneer days are displayed around the restaurant, including Dr. Compton's dentistry instruments. 15

The survey of Missouri's historic sites is based on the selection of sites as they relate to theme studies in Missouri history, as outlined in "Missouri's State Historic Preservation Plan". The Compton residence is, therefore, being nominated to the National Register of Historic Places as an example of the themes of "Architecture", "Exploration and Settlement", and "Society".
